TEACHING ARTIST FELLOWSHIP

Join our engaging masterclass series, led by resident teaching artists Hana El-Sagini, Lama Altakruri, and Richi Bhatia, as part of the Teaching Artist Fellowship. Each session provides participants with an immersive experience aimed at broadening their creative skills through practical learning and fresh insights into diverse artistic approaches.

This series offers a rare chance to learn directly from three distinct and innovative artists, each sharing their personal perspective on art-making. Whether you're seeking to experiment with sensory materials, create imaginary worlds, or respond to themes like food and memory, these workshops are designed to inspire and unlock your creative potential.

Teens & Adults:

Saturdays 3:00 - 5:00 pm
July 5, 12 | August 9, 16, 23

Hana El-Sagini works with different mediums to reflect on her personal journey and surreal landscapes exploring the intersection of place and the application of states evoked by globalized spaces of both body and medium, memory, trauma and loss through Hotels, cafes, etc) within neoliberal object making, assemblages, and glorifying everyday stories. Through her workshops, Hana will use ceramics as a medium to explore the sensory aspects of materials in relationship to the body.

contexts. Through a wide range of media, she investigates the sense of familiarity. Through her workshops, Lama will encourage participants to imagine and construct spaces to share their ideas, dreams, and stories.

Richi Bhatia's artistic practice is a multidisciplinary exploration spanning drawing, performance, food interventions. Through her workshops, Richi will delve into the relationship of food with ideas of care, nourishment, nostalgia and memory.
